“Grandpa i will miss you alot, i know you got mad at me alot and didnt mean alot of the stuff that you said but i loved you and i looked up to you. And im suppose to be going up to your house to stay the night and its not going to be easy looking outside see your truck there and thinking your just somewhere in the house. I always loved coming up to your house and spending the night, helping you out, and then wakeing up in the morning driving down to get the paper for you, then come back and you and me go out to breakfast. I think since my summer started i had the greatest time coming up to your house and spend it with you. I remember i always would sit in the living room with you and we would sit and watch the western movies, and then having you tell me who all of the people were in the movies. You the first person in the family that could always make me laugh no matter what you said, and im really going to miss that about you. The last good memory i had with you was when you let me drive to your house from chittenango and then you saying i had a led foot. The last time i saw you was when you let me drive home from your house and you talking to jackie and me for a min, and the last thing i can remember is you beeping your horn waving at jackie and me and driving away, i never would of thought that would be the last time i get to see you again. I always looked up to you. I love you grandpa and im going to miss you alot. And dont worry ill take good care of the dogs for you and treat them just like you treated them. I love you. Rest in peace Love, Jimmy (Fred Smith JR)
