“ I've known Mike for years, we went to elementary school together, I cheered for him when he played football at CNS, and I was lucky enough to attend college with him at Bryant & Stratton. April 01, 2003 at 12:00 AM

“ I first met you when I was three. The first kid I ever met. We spent endless days having fun getting in trouble. We did everything together. You were so much fun and always had new ideas to do. Every second was lived to the fullest. I wish I had the chance to have talked to you the past couple of years. Too late now. But I did see you and your father shared a special love. You two were always talking and never forget you were loved by many. You are in my thoughts and memories forever.

“ I was very sorry to hear about Mike's death. I am an instructor at Bryant & Stratton College. I only had Mike in one of my classes last year but I would still see him occasionally in school and at the San Francisco Music box store. He would tell me how he was doing. It is such a great loss to lose someone so young who was trying hard to succeed. My thoughts and prayers are with his family and friends.

“ there was a group of friends that mike was close with while growing up. these friends were very much on the wild side and made you feel sort of uneasy when ever they were around. out of all these teenagers, and i do not exagorate, the only one i felt comfortable with and had no anxiety over was michael. he was always polite to me,even though the friends were untrustworthy, and always had a conversation with me regardless. i felt all the time that he truly did not want to be with these kids. i saw mike many times, out on the circle, bombing around in his car, at some of his places of jobs, he always smiled and said hello, and i would always make time to strike up a conversation. i am very sad about this, sometimes life is just not fair. i do feel that god has a special purpose for mike though. god bless you michael, i will think of you often.

March 31, 2003 at 12:00 AM

“ As Michael's neighbor, I watched him grow up. I would go for walks and see him riding his bike. Always asking him, "does your mom know where you are?" Thinking to myself probably not. But his answer back was always yes, with that cute little smile of his. We use to call him "Big Mike" because he was bigger than the other kids and much brighter. I can picture Mike playing soldiers in the yard with the boys next door or sitting in the sand box under the tree. The first time I saw him behind the wheel of a car, driving by himself, I thought no way -he can't be old enough. It seems like only yesterday looking down the street seeing him all dressed up for his prom, looking so handsome and so grown up. I will miss seeing Mike's beautiful smile and waving hello to him as I walk by the house. May heaven open its gates and the angels spread their wings and sing in all their glory, for God has taken a most wonderful and free spirited young man. Your neighbor down the street, Angela

“ Michael was a great friend, but most of all a great listener. Whenever you needed a ear to listen, Michael was always there. Mike was never someone to pass judgement on you, but to just accept you for you. We will never forget the times we all shared together. Driving hours and hours in the car just talking with eachother about work, school, and life in general. Micheal Galvin was a great friend to many. But someone we will never forget. We love you Mike!!!
