“ To William's family, I am so sorry for your loss. If this is the same William ("Billy") Thibert that attended Clary Junior High back in the 60's (and I'm thinking it is quite likely after reading his daughter Jodie's lovely and loving posting), I would like you, and him, to know that he made a difference in my life. There was a day at school that, (to the teen I was at the time), seemed like an eternity, an embarrassing, degrading, publicly humiliating eternity. Somehow Billy seemed to know or sense the depth of this, and while we were not best buddies, he hung close that day, keeping me company on the walk home, discussing this and that, but not bringing up what was foremost in my mind. He actually made it possible for me to put the day behind me and just enjoy the walk. It was a small act of kindness but meant the world to me. In fact, two weeks ago (at the age of 61), I told my sister the story of the boy who knew I'd been wounded and was so very kind to me. From my heart, thank you William, (Billy) and God bless you and your family!

“ My father was truly a man with 9 lives, and he used every one of them to the fullest. He found happiness in helping others. He would always do what he could for others even to a fault. We will always remember him as the man he was before his accident. He loved all of us very much and our love for him will live on in our hearts. My memories of him will always be of our vacations and our good times together as a family. Dad....you will live on in all of our hearts. Jodie Thibert.
